Modern Academia: Looking through Interdisciplinary Lens

A certificate course conducted by Department of English, Kharagpur College from29/05/2023 to 08/06/2023

Summary Report

The Department of English, Kharagpur College conducted a certificate course as per UGC guidelines for its students (both UG and PG section) from 29/05/2023 to 08/06/2023. The course was titled Modern Academia: Looking through Interdisciplinary Lens with the aim of providing an interdisciplinary perspective to students and make them acquainted with modern research trends and ideas. The duration of the course was 30 hours with 3 hrs of classes each day. The courses aimed at pushing the boundaries of literature and establish the idea of interdisciplinary thinking by linking the core domain of English Literature with allied subjects such as Philosophy, Political Science, Performative arts, environmental concerns etc. The course also focused on comparative literature as an emerging domain in research trends thereby pushing the boundaries of literature beyond the coveted and sanctified domain of British Isles. It also aimed to move beyond linguistic hegemony of English and include in the literary fold the plethora of literature produced in vernacular languages with the prime focus being on the Indian sub-continent. Speakers from other linguistic departments of the college initiated the students in this regard. Participation in the course enabled the students to get acquainted with the not-so popular forms or genres of literature such as comics or graphic novels and consider cinemas and other art forms as texts thereby de-limiting the boundaries set by a printed book or any other hardcopies. Linking humanities with medical science, with environmental studies, sociology, strengthened he idea of interdisciplinarity. The course primarily aimed at inculcating a spirit of research among the students many of whom are first generation learners by pushing the boundaries set by a curriculum or a structured syllabus and foster novel ideas which in the long run would enrich the discipline. Successful completion of the course was concluded with an evaluative process consisting of MCQ patterned examination. Successful candidates were provided with a certificate following the evaluative process.
